

SRA Update

Issue 140 - June 2025

- [General updates \[#tab_a7121\]](#)
- [Compliance updates \[#tab_a7122\]](#)

Welcome to the latest SRA Update. We may finally be heading toward the summer, but I am sure that, like us, you are as busy as ever. With this in mind, I wanted to highlight a number of upcoming regulatory requirements, opportunities and chances for you to have your say on future changes to how we, and the wider sector operates. There is still time for you to have your say on our proposed work programme and budget for next year. Plus, we have opened a consultation on potential rule changes regarding how law firms identify and handle complaints. There are a number of newly recorded and imminent events and webinars now available for you to sign up for or view on our website – please do take a look.

Firm diversity data collection starts 09 June [\[https://news.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/equality-diversity/your-data/\]](https://news.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/equality-diversity/your-data/)

Our collection of firm diversity data starts 09 June. All SRA-regulated firms must collect, report and publish data about the diversity make-up of their workforce every two years. The data all firms will need to provide is outlined on our website.

[Read more about: Firm diversity data collection starts 09 June \[https://news.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/equality-diversity/your-data/\]](https://news.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/equality-diversity/your-data/)

First-tier complaints - proposed rule changes [\[https://news.sra.org.uk/sra/news/press/first-tier-complaints-consultation/\]](https://news.sra.org.uk/sra/news/press/first-tier-complaints-consultation/)

All firms will receive complaints from clients. Although sometimes challenging, if handled constructively, how you deal with such issues can actually present opportunities to build relationships and improve how you do business. We are consulting on rule amendments that change when you might give your clients complaints information, and which define what a complaint is.

Introduction of varying publication periods for decisions [<https://news.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-140-publication-policy/>]

A new approach to how long details of regulatory and disciplinary outcomes about solicitors and law firms are published, with publication lengths varying based on seriousness, has come into effect as of 2 June 2025. The changes are designed to deliver a considered approach which is fair, proportionate and best serves the public interest.

Your views on progress on our strategy

[<https://news.sra.org.uk/sra/news/press/2024-press-releases/strategy-benchmarking-survey-2024/>]

As part of our work measuring performance against our corporate strategy, you might be contacted by research company Thinks with a survey. This will explore your views on progress against our mission to drive trust and confidence in legal services. If asked to take part, responses will not be personally identifiable to you. It builds on the research we published last year to assess levels of confidence and trust in legal services and what drives it.

Welcome to the latest issue of Compliance News. We provide the key points to note following a recent update to UK government sanctions on Russia. We also encourage all firms to read our article on The Office of Financial Sanctions Implementation (OFSI) first-ever Legal Services Threat Assessment. There is a reminder about managing the risks when involved in a law firm merger and important guidance about providing expert witness services. Finally, with the summer approaching you will once again soon be required to provide information on how you manage AML and financial sanctions risk. Prepare for this by reading the support materials on our website.

Updates to UK sanctions regime

[<https://news.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-140-sanctions-regime/>]

The UK government has implemented further sanctions under the Russia (Sanctions) (EU Exit) Regulations 2019. These updates are part of coordinated international efforts to restrict activities that undermine Ukraine's sovereignty and territorial integrity.

Warning notice on mergers and acquisitions

[<https://news.sra.org.uk/solicitors/guidance/mergers-acquisitions-sales-law-firms/>]

It has been reported that appetite for mergers among small and mid-sized firms has decreased in the last year. However, if your firm is considering a merger or acquisition, you should make sure you read our warning notice to understand your obligations.

Annual AML and sanction data collection

[<https://news.sra.org.uk/sra/news/firm-anti-money-laundering-sanctions-data-requirements/>]

This year's anti-money laundering (AML) and sanction data collection will take place in July. Firms will need to provide information about AML and financial sanctions activity and how you manage this. We will contact compliance officers with more information about what to expect and when. A sample questionnaire is now available to help you prepare.

Legal services sanctions risks

[<https://news.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-140-sanctions-risks/>]

The Office of Financial Sanctions Implementation (OFSI) has released its first-ever Legal Services Threat Assessment, setting out the main sanctions compliance risks facing the legal sector. We welcome this report and encourage all firms to consider its findings.

Anti-money laundering guidance for legal sector [<https://news.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/money-laundering/guidance-support/>]

In case you missed it, the Legal Sector Affinity Group (LSAG) anti-money laundering (AML) guidance was updated in April. LSAG is made up of all the legal AML supervisory bodies. Updates include changes to the proceeds of crime regime, a revised approach to due diligence on bodies corporate, and further guidance on source of funds checks.

Reminders about expert evidence in high-volume work [<https://news.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-139-high-volume-claims-changes/>]

The Royal Institute for Chartered Surveyors has issued a practice alert to remind members of their obligations when providing expert witness services. Specifically, it mentions work in housing disrepair and other high-volume work. And MedCo has updated its guidance on examinations for personal injury claims. You might need to be aware of these updates.
